Hunton & Williams LLP No. 1 Legal Advisor in 2008 Black Book of Outsourcing

Hunton & Williams LLP today announced it leads the list of legal advisors in the 2008 Black Book of Outsourcing, a comprehensive guide and directory for the global field of outsourcing. The annual report from the Brown & Wilson Group identifies top outsourcing vendors and advisors, based on responses by outsourcing decision-makers. The 2008 survey was compiled using information received from more than 24,000 outsourcing customers from 40 countries. This No. 1 ranking closely follows Hunton & Williams' global and national rankings in Outsourcing and in Privacy and Data Security from Chambers and Partners, a highly regarded international legal research organization.

"This recognition, coupled with our recent repeat ranking by Computerworld as the leading privacy advisor in the world, confirms our strength in handling some of the most difficult legal issues in a global economy," said Wally Martinez, managing partner of Hunton & Williams. "We are honored and proud that our firm continues to receive this type of global recognition, and we thank our clients for continuing to place their trust in Hunton & Williams."

The Hunton & Williams LLP Global Technology and Outsourcing Practice Group combines remarkable depth and breadth of experience on a worldwide platform. In any given year, the group works on multiple domestic, global, offshore and multi-shore sourcing and technology transactions with total contract value in the billions of dollars. The firm has more than 40 outsourcing and technology lawyers and outsourcing-savvy subject matter professionals in tax, labor, real estate, employee benefits and intellectual property. Given the data intensive nature of the issues and transactions, and the global nature of its clients' businesses and sourcing solutions, the group is closely integrated with the firm's Privacy and Information Management Practice Group and the Center for Information Policy Leadership.
